Solo performance
Dance, spoken word, chant
Created October 2020
Duration: 45 minutes

*This work is made possible by the season Africa2020

Wanjiru Kamuyu is engaged in questioning the notions of place, belonging and otherness. A cosmopolitan on three continents - Africa, North America and Europe - wherever she decides to set up home is she considered an immigrant?

Her dance, a migratory map of encounters, starts with ballet, studied during her childhood in Kenya, to contemporary dance, discovered after her parents move family to the USA; and enfolded into her career journeys delights in dances from the African continent and diaspora as well as butô.

Her body is a constantly shifting map.

Her solo An Immigrant's Story, here presented in a shortened version, interrogates the gaze upon the "foreigner" in a new space, new society. The work, through satire, offers a critical eye on the notions of place and placement that are prevalent in today's political discourse.

"Having lived on three different continents – Africa, North America and Europe – has provided me the privileged space and time to absorb diverse cultures and worldviews.

The current critically sensitive (im)migration issue at the forefront of worldwide political debates has inspired me to re-examine my personal (im)migration stories and consequentially cultivated a desire to examine the notion of and politics surrounding the privileged vs. unprivileged (im)migrant.

Summer 2017, in France, I worked on a community engagement project with 65 young Eastern Europeans aspiring artists and 11 Middle Eastern and African refugees. Their audacious stories remained with me. Further exploration of the core underpinnings causing the current flux in (im)migration all serve as points of inquiry for my new solo."

"I have just left a colorful country,

A flavorful country, against my will Nililazimishwa « I was forced to » My parents decided to up and change their lives while destroying mine.

Don't worry, I am not here to whine, it's really not my style.

I just want you to understand that....

I may never again eat Mama Wawira's ugali
na sukuma wiki,

And I may never again hear spoken giriama,
gusii, kisi, kamba, kuria, luyia, bukusu, maragoli, nvole, wanga, kimeru, kikuyu, kiembu, kiswahili, luo, maasai, samburu,
pokot, turkana, borana, gujarâtî, hindi, nubi,
sheng,

And that's tragic."

"Who are these men

who reveal

History?

Huh!?

Because it is important to understand

who affirms what?

Who is this "WE"?"

*"Cameroun - Niger - Nigéria - Algérie - Maroc
- Espagne - France*

14 1/2 years old. The sea. Spain. A dream that keeps me going: one day I will paint airplanes, boats."

Testimony | Yvan

"Dallas - Los Angeles - Washington DC - Abidjan - Bogota - Juba - Ankara - Paris
Did you know that in Turkey, touching black/brown skin is considered to bring you luck?
Did you know that outside of the United States, being African American, is actually mega chic? Did you know that in Paris, as a newcomer, making friends is really quite difficult?"

"Caen - Paris

Testimony | Marie

Un voyage towards freedom.

La liberté. La liberté d'être all of who I am."

Testimony | Clément

"The surprising traveler."

Philippe Noisette | Les Inrocks | Dance Review

"An Immigrant's Story', a story of humanity, vibrant and disturbing...

If there was a reason to stand up and say how a singular form deeply moves, one would find themselves evoking performer and conceptual designer, Wanjiru Kamuyu, and the embodiment of her project.

Rendering present the propensity to despise the migrant, a subclass of humankind, she escapes the stage, a circumscribed performance space, to rush into the stands thus including the audience in her caustic interrogation.

Who is this 'We' who speaks with sufficiency, offering a presumed universal 'History'?

How can one not be won over by the intelligent foresight projected with so much conviction and sincerity?"
